Subject: Billy Mitchell would like to meet with you

Walter,

Thank you so very much for your efforts for GWR, myself, and gaming history overall... as I expressed to you verbally, it is my strongest goal to preserve the friendship and legacy of hard work that you and GWR have done that have put competitive gaming on the world map since the 1980's ...

I also proudly boast, as you have proclaimed, that I have surly been the most activist players during these four decades to assist in the building of this enduring esports foundation...

I believe the attorneys have communicated well and brought a great understanding and effort to restore history with integrity forward. They are very close...

This idea you and I shared to sit with Craig is an effort to take the baton from the hands of lawyers on each side and open our hearts to understanding the complications currently facing both side and push this to a positive finale...

You and I discussed and both believe in the character of Craig and the fact he desires the same good will and goals as us...

I don't want attorneys to make any moves or decisions, that would be regretful... Therefore the sooner we can meet the more secure we can feel...

Again, thanks for your help,

BM

Hi Craig, I sent the follow message to Walter and he was uncertain if the email reached you as it bounced back to him...

I leave the message as is and I hope you hear the sincerity I have...

Please reindicate your willingness to meet and the date so I can make travel arrangements and give directives to others...

Hi Billy,

Good to hear from you directly, and apologies for not replying immediately. I'd really appreciate the chance to meet up in NYC and chat - I can't believe we've NOT met up after all these years! - but would need you to confirm that you're dropping your legal claim against us first. We wouldn't be able to negotiate on two fronts - this would likely confuse matters - so can you please confirm that you're withdrawing your action? If so, I'll be around at the end of the month and would prefer to just sit down with you and Walter and talk things through.

Looking forward to hearing from you.

And thank you again, Walter, for your efforts in getting Billy and me together.

Best,

Craig

Hi Craig,

I received your email. Please let me clarify there is a case served in Los Angeles County against Twin Galaxies, and there is no pending action against GWR. I hope to avoid that.

The attorneys worked diligently over the past few months and have come very close to finalizing the situation. The statement proposed by GWR's representation (Marsha Hoover) looks great, and I believe that me and you (and any other GWR reps) could resolve the other aspects much more quickly leaving both parties more satisfied with the outcome. I hope to speak about books, certificates, press, and possibly some other points.

This would be a meeting between two parties/individuals, who have always had the utmost respect for each other, common friends and an identical vision. Again, I believe our mutual respect and goals can surely fill the final void to eliminate any differences that currently exist.

Please let me know your availability, and I will do my very best to accommodate it. Walter returns from India on March 2, if you are still in the US, then I am available at that time as well. Please also consider weekends as they are very much available to me.

Please let me know if you would be willing to meet.

Never Surrender,

Billy

Hi Billy, apologies again for the delay in answering. (And hi Walter - your emails are still going into my spam folder - v odd.)

Definitely happy to meet next week in NYC, but would be great to have you there too, Walter. What's the earliest you can both be in NYC? It's important that we're all there, so I'm happy to adjust schedules to meet you both.

Just need to stress that we'd be meeting on the understanding that there's no possibility of a financial offer being made. Billy, if you're okay to meet on that basis, then give me the dates that suit you both.

Looking forward to chatting... Craig

Hi Craig,

Thanks for accepting the offer to meet. I am comfortable with the premises.

I can personally fly to NYC next week. Walter is currently in India and returns on Monday, March 2. He thinks next week on Friday, March 6, around dinner time would be great. I'll propose 6PM est. Saturday is also very available

Please let me know if this fits with you, so Walter and I can make the necessary reservations. I'm confident we can finish some final pieces towards putting this to rest. Looking forward to it.

Never Surrender,

Billy

Hi Billy, trying to shuffle the diary around, as I now need to be back in the UK. How would you feel about Mon or Tues 16/17 March? Does that work for both of you? I don't want to delay it any further but this would be my preference.

Our office is at 45 W 45th St, which is central.

Walter returns from India tomorrow and needed some rest, so the delay actually works out.

Hi Billy, I would urge you to reconsider and continue to seek an amicable resolution. I apologise for delays in communicating, but over the past two weeks we've introduced a wide range of travel restrictions and bans owing to the spread of coronavirus. A few of our offices are experiencing raised levels of concern, and we've had to close our Beijing office entirely; our appearances on TV shows are being cancelled, record attempts in various parts of the world have been canceled or postponed, and external meetings (and visits to our office) have been rescheduled. Based on government advice, we're limiting all travel, although I'm trying to convince our owner that the trip to New York is business-critical.

Believe me, I'm keen to resolve this and more than ready to pop over to New York, but I just need an affirmative statement in writing that you will a) drop your threat to sue GWR; and b) any resolution will not include payment from GWR.

I hope you understand, but under the circumstances, unfortunately I won't be able to travel unless we get your explicit understanding of the above.

Best wishes... Craig

Please note that there has been no legal action taken against Guinness World Records. Please review the emails we exchanged February 24-26, and you can rest assured that the explicit terms we both accepted are still in force.

I am aware of the challenges your company and many others face in the current world of uncertainty. I am seeking to resolve this and I am hopeful that we can do so in a timely manner. I appreciate your advice to continue seeking amicable terms, and am hoping that we can meet in a timely manner with timely communication

Good Morning Craig,

The coronavirus has turned the world upside-down, and with the travel bans in effect, we cannot meet for at least a few weeks. I still believe we can reach an amicable resolution that meets GWR's terms but also gives me satisfactory recourse on the situation. I want to set forth my current position so that you and the owner fully comprehend it. I am not fully opposed to GWR's position and I am not resolved to fight a lawsuit. We can settle the situation amicably I am sure.

For me, the most important aspect of any agreement rests in the wording of GWR's statement. The current statement proposed by GWR's legal representation would not assist in my efforts to reverse the damages I have suffered, and I question if it will help me. I desire a statement that contextualizes the situation and helps reverse the damages incurred by me thus far. I believe Walter's involvement provides a thoroughly knowledgeable mediator for that statement. I also have a few other non-financial requests (i.e. certificates).

Lastly, I want to meet you and any other GWR representatives directly, because I believe you, myself, Walter, and any others will easily reach a statement and agreement that satisfies everyone. I hope you and the owner receive this email well. I have high hopes and look forward to chatting.

Never Surrender,

Hey Billy,

Thanks for this comprehensive reply - and apologies again for my long delay in replying. Hope you're both coping okay with the current crisis. We're all fighting to keep our heads above water at the moment, and we've got the pressure of an imminent deadline for the GWR2021 edition.

Obviously we're going to have to wait for a face-to-face meeting - it's hard to imagine EVER getting out of lockdown! - but we can progress as far as possible virtually. We have the tools for videoconferencing from home, so this should be considered. Also, we can probably work offline to get the statement beefed up so that it suits everyone's needs. This would also give us a good focus for the meeting, in whatever form it takes. Shall we start there, with Walter's helping drafting it?

Take care, both

Yes Sir,

that's very well understood and will be respected...
to spill the beans...

I am or was scheduled to meet for the first time someone who is said to be "my biggest fan"...

Remember I said, recently in celebration of Pac-Man's 40th Birthday, my being featured in Namco Museum, and in consideration regarding my struggle forward I decided to perform another "PERFECT PAC-MAN"...
AND I DID... 3,333,360... ●

Having spoken to, never having met "My Biggest Fan" I had no idea he was in Ft. Lauderdale and on that exact evening was doing "Pizza Review" here in town...

I was playing at a Barcade called Glitch...

Immediately adjacent to Glitch is the Pizzeria... We were 100 feet from each other and neither one knew it at the moment...

I WILL RESPECT your concerns as "My Biggest Fan" is a fish with potentially too big of a splash...

Dave Portnoy... President and owner of Barstool Sports...

If you are familiar with Barstool Sports they are now bigger than ESPN...

They have asked me for a considerable time now that when I am in New York to do a Pizza Review with him and of course I said I will...

I did not know he has a residence here in Florida...

His assistant tentatively scheduled a Pizza Review for Thursday noon time Miami...

I must say this honest and open friendship that is growing between us is very very refreshing...

Because of your position at GWR and a travel that is needed and your office that is opening in Miami... We will undoubtedly cross path... I will not be asleep look forward to that... and with a little notice, it will give me a good excuse to make arrangements for Walter to be down here and visit his sister who lives here... and to visit with you and I at that time...

Always ●,
BM

Hey Billy, I appreciate you asking the question, so thanks.

Officially, no, please don't tell anyone, as it risks the embargo being broken and therefore the control we have over the story.

Unofficially, obviously it's safer if no-one's in a position to pre-empt the story and release it before the embargo so I guess it's up to how much you trust your friend not to jump the gun. Obviously SOME people now know - your media team, Walter - and these guys you can rely on. If the same goes for your media buddy, then it will make your decision easier. If you're taking his advice on how to prepare for what follows, then yes, it's understandable that you speak to him in advance, but please caution him to not share and to respect the 5pm release.

We'd had a few breaches of embargoes in the past, and all that happens is that we at GWR are caught unawares and can outwardly seem unprepared to answer questions that come before the embargo deadline.

MITCHELL003700

Not sure that this answers your question - as I say, it depends on how much faith you have in your friend - but I trust that you'll make the right call and for the right reasons.

Cheers... C

Craig,

This is an email with you and I only that I will not share with anyone...

I made a commitment that I would keep this announcement confidential until GWR makes the planned announcement on June 18th...

I will never, ever break the integrity of honesty with you...

On Thursday I will be with a media friend when your announcement hits...

I am asking for your blessing, if you feel appropriate in granting me the option to to share and prepare with my friend that there is this planned announcement and of course have his commitment for confidentiality as well...

Please feel free to share your honesty and concern as I will honor them unconditionally...

Friendship,

BM

Hey Billy, I appreciate you asking the question, so thanks.

Officially, no, please don't tell anyone, as it risks the embargo being broken and therefore the control we have over the story.

Unofficially, obviously it's safer if no-one's in a position to pre-empt the story and release it before the embargo so I guess it's up to how much you trust your friend not to jump the gun. Obviously SOME people now know - your media team, Walter - and these guys you can rely on. If the same goes for your media buddy, then it will make your decision easier. If you're taking his advice on how to prepare for what follows, then yes, it's understandable that you speak to him in advance, but please caution him to not share and to respect the 5pm release.

We'd had a few breaches of embargoes in the past, and all that happens is that we at GWR are caught unawares and can outwardly seem unprepared to answer questions that come before the embargo deadline.

Not sure that this answers your question - as I say, it depends on how much faith you have in your friend - but I trust that you'll make the right call and for the right reasons.

Cheers... C

on a heavy hearted note...

a good friend of mine and Walter there in England just finished a "Perfect Pacman" attempt..

a true heart breaker after playing 6 hours, 255 boards without missing any points or deaths...

on the final board... 256 he died and missed a "Perfect Score" by only 80 points...

so sorry for Jon...

He will be back...

My guarantee...
